3. BUSINESS

3.1. Cost Center Reports

Susan Domenighini

One of the things that Annie and Susan are working on is cost centers. We are examining things like how much of the supplies budget is are being spent and in which area of the budget. ELOP, for example. We want to assure that the snacks and supplies that are being purchased for the program are allocated correctly. When we are telling the story of the school and why we are spending money these things make a difference. Setting up cost centers will help us assure the allocations are correct. Cost centers also help us with making adjustments to the budget and budget driven decisions. The Nutrition program is used as an example. Currently, this program is bringing in more than we are spending on it. If we make cuts in this area of the budget then we risk ending up having to return money we have received to support the program. If we have an area in the budget like this we may allocate more expenses to this area to balance it out. So we are working to have coding lined up. It is very much like a profit and loss business. Eventually cost centers will be looked at monthly. The forecasting report is helpful.

3.2. Staffing Costs/Overtime/Workload

Discussion/Action (30min)

This is just a general discussion - we find ourselves struggling often to cover the areas of the school that need covering. Part of the reason for this is that Amanda is on leave, part is due to illness and employee absences, and part of this is due to the workload. The committee will be seeing that there is an increase in overtime for some employees as we work to cover all areas of the school.

We are seeing a significant increase in need in speech therapy costs as we have had an increase in student needs. So some costs will increase. We do not receive extra funding due to the services needed. Student funding is a flat rate for all students. Ouestion:

As far as the cause of the increase in overtime, is this a result of the staffing cuts that were made?

We cut the front office staff by 5% and reduced their hours. I don't know that that is the cause of the overtime we are seeing. We will look at the numbers in June. Staff are still working the same hours; they just have fewer days to complete tasks. It's just a high workload area.

Question: How much do we think we are going to be spending?

Answer: Unable to provide a number right now.

Question: 1st interim budget gets turned in 12-15 with potential overtime. When will we be able to know what we are going to do about the deficit?

Answer: When the time comes, I will write a letter on why we have a deficit and what we plan to do. I will talk to Jaclyn Kruger, who is the superintendent of finance for BCOE, to ask her what she recommends. We will have more discussions about how important it is to be on budget? Cutting staff in the middle of the year is not ideal and is painful in more ways than one. We will try not to do this and would rather spend a little over budget to avoid it.

Question: Kinda piggy backing off of that topic, at what point do we work on those deficits? We can start working on this now. The finance committee will work with the board. We have the process that says that this body will not work on personnel. We do as a school start asking for intentions from all staff for the next year in February and start talking about the upcoming year in March.

3.3. Update on New School Site

Discussion(10 min)

We have the property. We have settled on an architect, Kevin Easterling of RGA. Kevin will be coming to the next school tour to see what we do. I've asked the real estate team to work on an extension of our current lease. Who works on the funding of the new school? Question, can the finance committee help? State bond issue and district bond issue both passed so that is good news for us. How soon will the district be looking at proposals for Measure C? Very soon it will be their priority. Julie Kistle from CUSD facilities, says that they are moving away from the Measure K process and dealing with the CUSD board directly. Timeline for the plan? Spring of 2025 and break ground. We are moving really quickly and should have a plan by December to present to the district.
